Acknowledgments

This publication was prepared by Serge Chrisopoulos and Brad Waters, with the guidance of Pam Lee and Glenice Taylor of the Labour Force and Rural Health Unit and Kathy Southgate of the Data Management Unit of the Australian Institute of Health and Welfare.

We thank each state and territory nursing board and health authority that provided data used in this publication and the Australian Bureau of Statistics for population Census data.

Most importantly, we also thank the nurses who took the time to complete the survey. Without their cooperation, it would not be possible to maintain this collection, which is used to inform the community about the crucial nursing profession, and to form the basis of planning and policy decisions.
